Summer holidays begin in mid-June so schools are closed. Many children go camping in the mountains or by the sea. Due to the fact that July is the hottest month in Cyprus, many people take this advantage to enjoy the sun and sea.

August is the month of "minallagia" which basically means observing the sky to forecast the next years weather. Some farmers observe the weather daily so they can forecast the weather for each month. Mr. Andreas explains that the first three days of August shows what the weather would be for the whole of August the fourth day for September the fifth day for October and so on. If there are clouds and humidity that means the month will be a wet one. If the weather is dry that means it will not rain.
